Dear Bill,

Thanks for the hasty note on your father's excellent recovery. That is what the odds are today. He'll get better and better if he keeps himself in condition, particularly with walking.

That is also great news about Betsy and how her department came through the audit. You should be as proud as you were, if not prouder!

The best thing I can say for how "it" was when your letter got here is that it coincided with her finally getting rid of an overdue tax return for the poor record-keeper who had come to the end of his time extension. Trying for here. And she has, I think, one to go.

Please be alert to anything on the Sy Hersh coming book The Dark Side of Camelot. I'll appreciate any clippings. What a fine reporter like him is doing denigrating the President who saved the world in 1962 is not easy to understand. So, I wonder. It was reported that he began intending a book on the assassination. I suppose that would have been in support of the official mythology. Or it would not have been published.

I've not yet heard from my niece on when to expect disks you all can use for the ms. she retyped for me. I asked her a couple of days ago. She is back in school being reeducated. The people she worked for went bankrupt.

Congratulations to all of you!

Best,
